

Happy Christmas and a peaceful
New Year to all

Pilgrimage to Peace

Our commemorative booklet of our Coventry 2010 Jubilee event will be in the office soon. There's lots for everyone to enjoy, including photos, poetry, theology and more. Even if you were not able to come to Coventry last year there will be plenty to interest you, and if you could take part it will remind you of all that went on.

If you'd like a booklet, please send a stamped addressed envelope (C5 sized envelope with a 36p stamp, or 46p if you want first class) to the office and we'll send you a copy. Please allow a couple of weeks for delivery.

Anyone who would like another copy of the Church Statements poster, please contact the Office.

Advent vigils at Aldermaston

Three important events we need to draw your attention to. The first is the annual Advent Vigils at Aldermaston. These will take place between 1 and 2pm each Wednesday in Advent, i.e. 30th November, and the 7th, 14th, and 21st December. Contact Caroline Gilbert for lifts, leaflets whatever, 01865 241 290 maasgilbert@hotmail.com

Other groups interested in taking on a day in Advent, please contact: Chris Gidden: ccnd@chg.me.uk 02076091093.

If you cannot go but would like to join in this witness, you will find suggested prayers on CCND website, or contact the office for a copy.

If you are not sure about the weather on the day causing the vigil to be cancelled, check with Chris Gidden; 07949 428011.

Holy Innocents 2011

The second important event is the Holy Innocents event which this year is on 28th December at St Martin-in-the-Fields in Trafalgar Square, London. Organised by Anglican Pacifist Fellowship under the auspices of the Network of Christian Peace Organisations. The service will be at 11.00 and the witness at 2.00 as usual. The focus will be North Africa and the Middle East so will embrace what has been happening in Libya and Syria. Info: AJKempster@aol.com

Bob Russell

We are very sorry to tell you that one of our co-chairs, Bob Russell died recently after a short illness.

Bob had a deep religious faith and it was this that motivated him to work for peace. To him, this is what the Gospel was all about.

We in CCND have a small Executive Committee with big ideas. We were delighted when Bob agreed to be one of our Co-Chairs. He was solid, reliable, practical and realistic but never a wet-blanket or kill-joy! Our meetings were often enlivened by laughter when Bob told us another little anecdote about another meeting he had just been to; maybe about the way pacifists can fall out when planning an event - (we all care so much, but maybe don't always appreciate ideas that are different from our own.) Bob took part in the planning group that organised the annual Conscientious Objectors' Commemoration in Tavistock Square, and often took a leading part in this. He was also an enthusiastic representative of Christian CND on the National CND Council.

vant to our work concerning the Non-Proliferation Treaty.

Bob was a good speaker and had plenty of experience as a Preacher in his Church. When he joined our schools team, we were not sure how he could adjust his style to Inner-City teenagers, but there was no need to worry. The youngsters gazed at him open mouthed, amazed that anyone who could talk about picking up schrapnel from the streets in the Second World War could even be still able to breathe, let alone give them an interesting and lively talk on Just War theory!

We in the London Office of Christian CND knew how dear to his heart his own Essex CCND was. We were full of admiration at how this local group continued to meet and organise events, even when many local groups had faded away. The big event here was the annual exchange of candles with the Japanese peace movement and survivors of the Hiroshima Bomb. He was so pleased when Beryl and Roger could actually visit Hiroshima and take the candles from Essex themselves.

We are grateful for his unstinting loyalty and integrity. We don't know how we will fill the gap he has left, but we will. We owe him this, at least.
